HARVARD HAS A VALUED,
longtime partnership with the Allston-Brighton neighborhood and the City of Boston.

Many of these partnerships are memorialized as commitments that are part of Harvard’s four active cooperation agreements with the City of Boston:

Science Complex Cooperation Agreement (4/2/08)	IMP Cooperation Agreement (7/10/14)
28 Travis Street Cooperation Agreement (1/2/14)	Harvard Life Lab Cooperation Agreement (4/8/16)

In addition to providing a comprehensive accounting of Harvard’s commitments to the Allston-Brighton community, this Annual Report provides an in-depth update on many of the exciting partnerships and programs taking place in our shared neighborhood every day.

The community enjoyed an evening of tango at the Harvard Ed Portal featuring members of Orquesta Bajofonderos from the American Repertory Theater (A.R.T.) production of Arrabal.

Friends of the Honan-Allston Library received a 2016-2017 Harvard Allston Partnership Fund grant and were joined by State Representative Kevin Honan, Harvard President Drew Gilpin Faust, Boston Mayor Martin J. Walsh, and Boston City Councilor Mark Ciommo.

Harvard Ed Portal Faculty Director Robert A. Lue.

SPOTLIGHT

Arts & Culture

The past year was one of growth in arts and culture programs and further established the Harvard Ed Portal as a unique venue for convening the diverse talents of Harvard and local creative communities. From performances to week-long intensive youth arts programs, the Harvard Ed Portal regularly brings visual, performing, media, and teaching arts to audiences from Allston-Brighton and beyond. Understanding the importance of convening the local creative community to support a vibrant cultural ecosystem, the Harvard Ed Portal also connects neighborhood artists to peers, resources, and opportunities to help them leverage their work.

CREATIVE ECONOMY

Supporting Allston-Brighton Artists

The Harvard Ed Portal was proud to host a variety of free information sessions designed to support the creative economy and connect local artists to funding opportunities. Between July 2016 and June 2017, over 210 attendees participated in events with a variety of grantmaking organizations, including Boston Cultural Council, Live Arts Boston, and New England Foundation for the Arts.

Located outside of the Harvard Ed Portal, Free Space Project: The Living Wall is an interactive installation designed by Lindsey Kocur, Director of Visual Art at the West End House Boys and Girls Club in Allston.

PERFORMANCE

85 people attended a performance by internationally-acclaimed hip-hop artist Tef Poe, who weaves social commentary through a blend of trap, soul, R&B, and rock'n'roll music. Poe is an American Democracy Project Fellow at Harvard University's Charles Warren Center for Studies in American History and is the 2017-18 Nasir Jones Hiphop Fellow at the Hutchins Center.

TEACHING ARTS

Under the direction of local artist Ross Miller (a Harvard College graduate and former Loeb Fellow), high school students designed and painted a series of lamppost banners, which were later displayed throughout the Star Market parking lot at Brighton Mills.

Workforce & Economic Development

Workforce & Economic Development programs at the Harvard Ed Portal are designed to set individuals up for success—whether it be the next step of a career or growing a business. Every week, job seekers and ESOL students can access a community of support and resources to develop new skills. Harvard also remains committed to facilitating engagement between community partners to ensure vibrancy of the Western Avenue commercial district and its identity as a neighborhood where local businesses can thrive.

When you walk in the door to the Harvard Ed Portal, it's clear that it's not just about the resources available to job seekers, it's about the people you meet there too.

Faculty Speaker Series

Recognizing the importance of educational dialogues between Harvard and the Allston-Brighton community, the Faculty Speaker Series has been one of the Harvard Ed Portal's signature programs since it first opened its doors in 2008. This year, the series brought academic experts from four of Harvard's schools to engage lifelong learners on topics as diverse as bioethics and the role of electronic media. It also integrated new formats designed to increase audience participation through panel discussions and interactive workshops.

Health and Wellness for the New Year Learning Xchange:

The Ed Portal hosted several in-person Learning Xchanges designed to serve as an on-ramp to digital learning and as a way to connect community members through peer-led study groups focused on an online course. Ed Portal members kicked off 2017 with "Health and Wellness for the New Year," a Learning Xchange about nutrition, sleep, physical exercise, and maintaining a healthy lifestyle. In addition to in-person health screenings and workshops, participants had the opportunity to sign up for related edX courses and explore HarvardX offerings.

In partnership with HarvardX, the Harvard Ed Portal hosted an expert-led panel discussion, The Opioid Crisis in Boston and Beyond, which examined the epidemic's impact on individuals, families, and communities.

A PARTNERSHIP WITH BOSTON PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Data Wise

A collaboration between the Harvard Ed Portal, Harvard Graduate School of Education (HGSE), and Boston Public Schools (BPS), Data Wise provides teachers and administrators with a four-week module on using data to improve teaching and learning. Led by experts from both HGSE and BPS, session content included the online HarvardX course, “Data Wise: A Step-by-Step Guide to Using Assessment Results to Improve Teaching and Learning.”

Youth Programming

The Harvard Ed Portal advances Harvard's commitment to education through youth programs designed to support classroom learning. Building on the success of marquee academic mentoring by Harvard undergraduates (now in its 10th year), the Ed Portal expanded its youth programming to include new, subject-specific offerings (including Summer Explorations and Enrichment Clubs) that allow students to deepen their knowledge of a broad range of topics—from creative computer coding to soft robotics. All of these opportunities are available to Allston-Brighton residents (grades 1–12) and students who attend the Gardner Pilot Academy.

YOUTH PROGRAMMING DATA

On April 28, over 150 neighbors attended the Harvard Ed Portal's Family Fun Night. The evening featured interactive games, experiments, and presentations hosted by Allston-Brighton youth from the spring mentoring program, yoga for all levels, specimen observation and bug-making with the Harvard Museum of Natural History, and workshops on fixing bikes hosted by CommonWheels.

Summer Explorations

During the summer of 2016, the Harvard Ed Portal launched a new Summer Explorations program. In its first year, six free week-long programs were offered to Allston-Brighton youth. While a variety of subjects were covered, each was carefully designed to enrich learning, stimulate curiosity, and reduce summer learning loss.

Summer 2016 offerings included:

- ArtScience Summer Intensive
- AMGEN Biotech Experience
- Summer Safe Bicycle Riding
- Pretext Summer Workshop
- Soft Robotics
- Creative Coding Studio

SPOTLIGHT

Public School Partnerships

Harvard's Public School Partnerships (PSP) team brings Harvard resources and programming opportunities to educators, parents, and students within Boston Public Schools (BPS). PSP focuses its programs on three core areas: student programs (including at the Gardner Pilot Academy and the Jackson/Mann K-8 School), professional development for educators, and family engagement opportunities for Allston-Brighton residents.

PUBLIC SCHOOL PARTNERSHIPS DATA

90 teachers from Allston-Brighton schools participated in over 20 programs	242 Allston-Brighton students participated in the college readiness program, Project Teach

1,298 Allston-Brighton residents attended 16 family engagement events	13 HGSE students provided 2,114 hours in support of Allston-Brighton students

STUDENT PROGRAMS

The Harvard Art Museums, Gardner Pilot Academy (GPA), and the Harvard Ed Portal launched an initiative designed to reinforce the third-grade art curriculum and expand knowledge and appreciation of artwork. GPA third-graders studied art pieces at the Harvard Art Museums throughout the school year and created their own works at the Harvard Ed Portal—which were then publicly displayed at the Crossings Gallery. Students and families are seen at the opening reception for “Magnificent Mosaics and Spectacular Self-Portraits: Works by GPA Third Graders” on June 7.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EDUCATORS

Universal Design for Learning (UDL)

UDL is a BPS district priority and provides a framework designed to ensure classroom curricula are accessible to all students. PSP partnered with Harvard Graduate School of Education and BPS to offer a yearlong UDL Academy, along with supplementary modules to support teachers in applying UDL within their classrooms.

By offering yearlong professional development opportunities like Universal Design for Learning, Public School Partnerships provides critical support to teachers, and helps ensure these programs have a lasting impact on educators and students in Boston.

IN THE COMMUNITY

Housing

In response to the community's interest in stabilizing homeownership opportunities in the neighborhood through owner-occupancy, Harvard University, the City of Boston, and Allston Brighton Community Development Corporation (ABCDC) established a first-of-its-kind pilot program tying owner-occupancy agreements to certain real estate sales in North Allston and North Brighton. The All Bright Homeownership Program will access $3 million in Harvard funds, allowing the program to purchase and resell homes with voluntary deed restrictions that assure all units sold remain occupied by their owners.

Public Realm

Harvard is pleased to be a partner supporting community goals for a vibrant neighborhood in Allston-Brighton. As part of this effort, Harvard's contributions to public space improvements continue to transform community resources in ways that are both accessible and thoughtful. This year, the Public Realm Flexible Fund committee designated funding from Harvard's $5.35 million local grant program to eight different organizations that will contribute to the enhancement of both physical and cultural landscapes in the neighborhood.

In March, Harvard allocated $1.9 million of the Public Realm Flexible Fund to fully fund the first phase renovation of Smith Field. The renovation will include the construction of a new amphitheater, playgrounds, and athletic fields. Bringing to fruition the vision established by the neighborhood as part of a master planning process, this project will revitalize a significant open space and community resource.

Harvard Allston Partnership Fund

From youth enrichment activities to English literacy instruction to health and wellness programs, the Harvard Allston Partnership Fund (HAPF) was created to leverage the strengths and resources of local nonprofit community partners. In March, Harvard, the City of Boston, and the Allston-Brighton community celebrated the ninth year of the program. The Harvard Allston Partnership Fund Advisory Board awards $100,000 in grants to community partners each year.

Beyond the Agreements

Harvard's community engagement goes beyond what is memorialized in the University's four active cooperation agreements with the City of Boston. Working directly with city partners and the Allston-Brighton community, Harvard continually pursues creative and responsive initiatives that reflect its commitment to being a good neighbor.

Brian J. Honan Scholarship

Now in its 15th year, the Brian J. Honan Scholarship fund aims to help Boston municipal employees pursue professional studies and to honor former Boston City Councilor Brian J. Honan's legacy of public service. Six scholarships a year are awarded to City of Boston employees who live in Allston-Brighton for one course in the Graduate Business and Management Program at the Harvard Extension School.

Past Brian J. Honan Scholars have worked in a wide range of City of Boston departments, including:

- Auditing & Assessing Departments
- Boston Centers for Youth & Families
- Boston Public Library
- Boston Public Schools
- Citywide Analytics Team
- Consumer Affairs & Licensing
- Department of Neighborhood Development
- Elderly Commission
- Property Management
- Public Works
- Veterans Services Department

The location for Harvard's monthly coffee hour, swissbäkers is a family-owned Swiss-style bakery in Barry's Corner along Western Avenue.

Harvard/Allston Monthly Coffee Hour

On the first Thursday of every month, Harvard convenes a coffee hour with members of the Allston-Brighton community at swissbäkers in Barry's Corner. The informal breakfast gathering is an opportunity for both Harvard and residents alike to share updates and goals.

ZONE3

Zone 3 continues to carry out Harvard's commitment to vibrancy and creativity along Western Avenue. Hosting rotating programs and events, the Harvard-sparked initiative provides a space for community programming in addition to facilitating lively activities ranging from fitness classes to pop-up beer gardens.

Jessie & Katey Art Installation: Artists Jessie Unterhalter and Katey Truhn created an engaging example of public art at 273 Western Avenue, utilizing all sides and surfaces of the property and hosting community workshops throughout their process.

Allston Podcast Series

Recorded in the PRX Podcast Garage, the Harvard in Allston podcast series showcases exciting people, ideas, research, and programs making an impact in Allston and across Harvard's campus. The episodes capture amazing things happening in Allston every day:

Episode 1: The Pagliuca Harvard Life Lab

Episode 2: Allston-based collaboration between Harvard Business School and the Harvard John A. Paulson School of Engineering and Applied Sciences

Episode 3: Ed Portal Faculty Lectures featuring Professor Joe Blatt's lecture on the effects of media and technology on children

Episode 4: Tef Poe on the relationship between activism and music

PRX Podcast Garage: Zone 3 is the permanent home to a public podcast studio located at 267 Western Avenue and operated by PRX, a leading digital media organization.
